February 2016

I've just joined the team at All Nations, although my wife Emma and I were students here nearly twenty years ago. Without a doubt, we have applied what we learned at All Nations every day of our lives when working cross-culturally (leading Christian organisations and working in the business and health sector), whether in the UK or overseas in Afghanistan.

Over recent years I have led several organisations that care for oppressed and vulnerable adults and children, and our world today is ever more messy compounded by the influx of refugees from the Middle East predominantly, but also parts of Africa and Asia. The local church is now more than ever a key Gospel-centered lifeline providing practical assistance, love and companionship. What All Nations offers is real life training for women and men who serve in the midst of this context. So, personally, I know the importance of the Bursary Fund in enabling students who are struggling financially to be able to afford to train at All Nations.

Let me introduce you to some of our current students who have benefited from the Bursary Fund. What amazing people they are, and they have loved being at All Nations. The Bursary Fund has made it possible for them to study with us, and now they are better equipped for ministry! Brilliant!

I would really like to

Samuil Teodosiev from Bulgaria Samuil is passionate to return to Bulgaria, where he will be involved in church ministry with the hope of becoming a pastor. His heart is to make the gospel relevant for young people. He realises the need for local leaders to take the initiative in implementing sensitive, effective and contextualised, ministry. Samuil chose All Nations because he didn't want just pastoral training; it was important for him to have missiological training. Receiving the bursary gave Samuil the encouragement and faith to raise further support for his training. Samuil is currently on the second year of the BA Hons Degree programme.

Ana H from the Middle East Ana comes from the Middle East and was a member of a church that over the years became more restricted in its church activities. She feels called to move from her home in the Middle East to work in Europe with a media based organisation so that she can minister to her people more effectively from there. All Nations training has helped Ana to grow both spiritually and personally. She believes that the arts and theology classes and the cross-cultural teamwork training have been crucial in providing her with a firm foundation for ministry. If the bursary had not been provided by the College, Ana would not have been able to study at All Nations to complete the BA Hons Degree programme.

Jahnn and Ara Moya Cooper from Chile Jahnn grew up as a missionary kid in Santiago, Chile where he met his wife Ara. Jahnn and Ara would like to continue ministry and mission in music production and worship. Before coming to All Nations Jahnn produced two CD's for a Christian audience that were very successful. (itunes/YouTube: Neuma). Jahnn and Ara are both exploring a call to the UK. One of the main things that Jahnn and Ara have learnt at All Nations is to be open to "holistic" mission. The Bursary Fund has really helped them both and they are now in the final year of the BA Hons Degree programme. For them it has been a privilege and a blessing to study together.

Will you please consider investing into the lives of new students who, just like Samuil, Jahnn, Ara and Ana urgently need the help of the Bursary Fund to cover their essential costs of studying at All Nations? Your gift today will make all the difference, honestly, it will.

Thank you once again for supporting All Nations and for reading this letter, and whether you are new (like me), or have been supporting the work of the College for years – thank you in anticipation for investing in these precious lives for cross-cultural mission service in God's Kingdom!

In Jesus' Name
